World Economic Conference In London Is Adjourned

HULL READS NOTE FROM ROOSEVELT

Encouraging Message From President Says Parley
Not Failure, Not Dead

MACDONALD SPEAKS

British Premier Declares
That Recess Not Finish
Of Conclave; Hope Seen

LONDON, July 27.—(UP)—The world economic conference, convened with high hopes of lifting the nations from their economic distress, adjourned today with nothing accomplished, but with the encouragement of a message from President Roosevelt, saying it was not a failure and was not dead.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull also expressed hope in one of the closing speeches for future accomplishments. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, president of the conference, declared that the recess is not a finish.

The conference adjourned at 4:37 p. m., with some doubt that it would ever reconvene, despite the optimistic speeches. During the conference the secretariat issued eight tons of documents and communications.

In an extraordinarily frank address, Secretary of State Hull played critics of the conference and blamed its "partial failure" upon the "complete jumble and chaos of business and general economic conditions."

He said he did not believe the domestic economic policy of the United States could be blamed for the adjournment of the conference. He urged other nations in the world to adopt similar internal recovery programs.

Attacks Critics

"For those either pessimistically or wantonly inclined to attempt further to handicap the conference forward," he said, "is virtually to indict and discredit all forms of international problems which vitally effect the welfare of people alike in every part of the world."

He said he did not believe world statesmen could sit in conference too often or too long in earnest consideration of all questions disturbing friendly relations of the nation.

"Many of those not delegates here who criticized the conference for not going forward more expeditiously," he said, "represent the economic leadership in numerous countries which have already failed in repeated attempts since 1929 to cure panic conditions. This group of critics includes the selfish but short-sighted beneficiaries of governmental favoritism and those mock patriots whose constant propaganda would make international finance and commerce almost criminal."

Menace to Peace

Hull said the race of nations in "economic armaments" was as strong a menace to peace and commerce as have been wild competitions in the past in military armaments.

"When some nations undertake to produce every commodity whatsoever for the purposes of either peace or war, other nations are driven to turn to the adoption of similar policies of unjustifiable production, with the result that, as in the case of military armaments, the economic race neutralizes itself to the injury of all," he said.

"I appeal to this conference," he said, "and through it to people."

VOLUNTARY AGREEMENTS TO SHORTEN WORKING HOURS IN HANDS OF EMPLOYERS TODAY

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(UP)—Voluntary agreements to shorten working hours and establish minimum wages were placed in the hands of employers throughout the country today. Attached to the printed forms, was a personal message from the President of the United States urging prompt signature and compliance with the re-employment drive now going forward with all the fervor of a war time appeal to patriotism.

Postmen were given the task of distributing the agreement forms to every one of the 5,000,000 large and small employers in the nation.

The agreements provide a work week of 35 hours and a wage of at least 40 cents an hour for factory workers and industrial labor. For clerks, store employees and other "white collar" workers the maximum work week is 40 hours, with a minimum wage of $12 to $15 a week, depending on the size of the city.

The administration wants the agreements to go into effect at once so there can be a quick spread of employment and increase in mass purchasing power. The campaign for signatures, however, will continue in full force for five or six weeks. Every block of every city will be canvassed.

STATE SOLONS END FIFTIETH SESSION TODAY

Income Tax And Two And
One Half Per Cent Sales
Tax Finally Approved

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 27.—(UP)—Amid customary and inevitable scenes of confusion, California's legislature adjourned its 50th session early today after raising sufficient revenue to come within striking distance of the estimated $126,000,000 deficit, the largest red balance in state history.

As fatigued legislators started for home, predictions were freely made they would be back again in the fall or winter at a special session—this because they were convinced the governor would bring them back because they had failed to balance the budget.

Three revenue bills—the sales tax, income tax and strengthened inheritance tax—will produce approximately $112,500,000, according to best estimates. That leaves a $13,500,000 deficit remaining.

The sales tax provided a 2 1/2 per cent rate until June 30, 1935; 2 per cent thereafter. Estimates of its yield vary from $80,000,000 to $120,000,000, depending on one's faith in return of prosperity. Middle ground is $100,000,000.

Amend Income Tax
Controversial personal income tax was vitally amended by the senate. As finally approved by both houses it provided: One per cent tax on the first $4,000; two per cent on the second $4,000; three per cent on the third $4,000; four per cent on the next $38,000 and five per cent on all incomes over $50,000. Exemptions—and other provisions—of the federal income tax act were incorporated in the state bill.

The income tax yield was conservatively estimated at $11,000,000. The senate took the $15,000,000 assembly income tax bill and pared it down to $11,000,000. After a brief but violent debate, the lower house concurred in the senate amendments by a large majority.

A belated drive was launched in the lower house against senate income tax amendments. But the late hour coupled with the assembly's elation over senate passage of an income tax bill, quickly overrode the dissenters.

Vital amendments by Senator Jerald Seawell increasing income tax exemptions of single persons from $1,000 to $3,000 and for married couples from $250 to $750 were voted down, 27 to 11.

Senator J. W. McKinley, Los Angeles, led a vigorous attack against the measure. He contended California was a state which had worked assiduously to attract outside investors. Passage of the income tax, he felt, was a long backward step in this campaign.

MITCHELL RESIGNS INSURANCE OFFICE

SACRAMENTO, July 27.—(UP)—Governor Rolph today held the resignation of E. Forrest Mitchell, effective next month.

Inasmuch as the senate adjourned before the resignation was effective, Governor Rolph will be able to appoint a successor to Mitchell without the confirmation of the upper house of the legislature.

State officials expressed the belief today this would pave the way for the possible appointment of Roland Tognazzini, Los Angeles attorney, whose nomination to the important position was not favored by senate members while the legislature was in session.

Rolph indicated he would retain Mitchell long enough for him to be eligible for a state pension, a matter of a few months.

BETTING PERMITTED UNDER STATE LAW

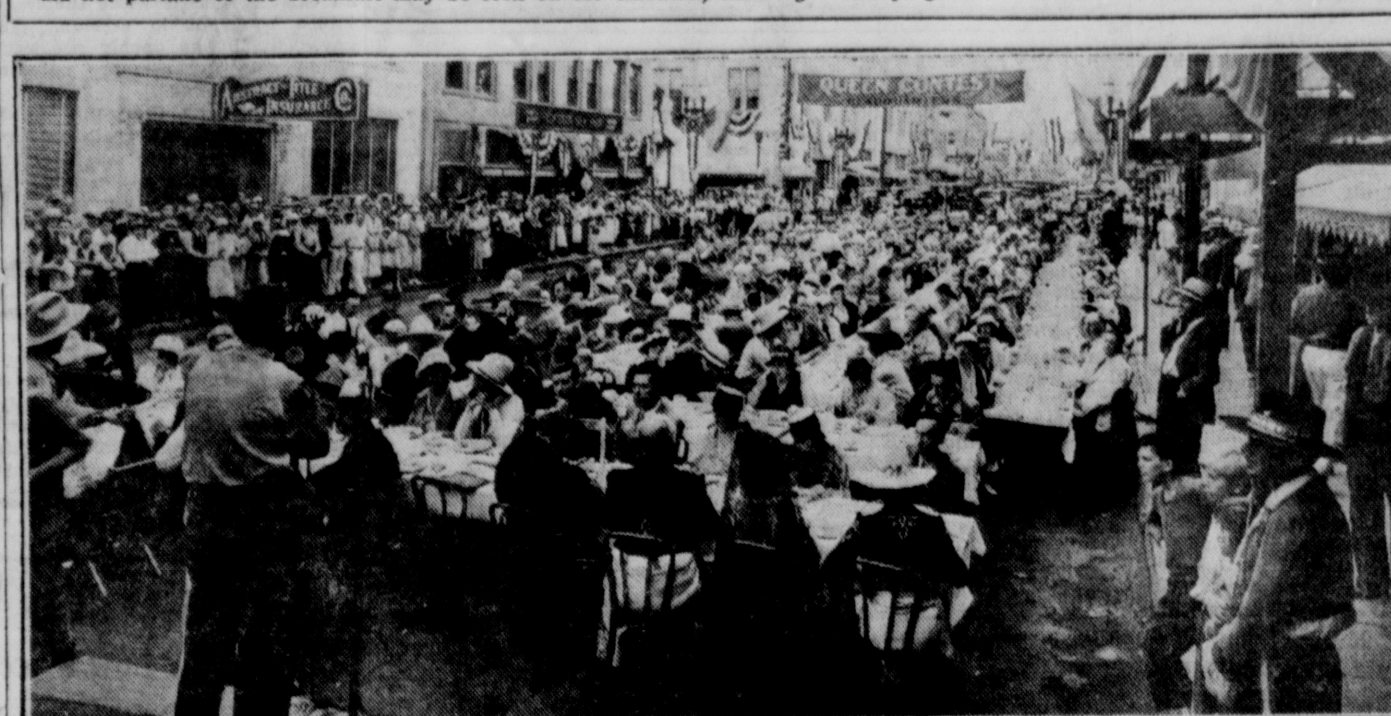

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 27.—(UP)—California today was assured of legalized pari-mutuel betting on horse races after Governor Rolph made a sudden shift in his choice of members for the state racing commission and the senate voted unanimous approval of the nominations.

The name of Daniel O'Brien, former San Francisco police chief and prominent member of the Rolph administration, was withdrawn by the governor late yesterday on the ground O'Brien planned to leave soon for the east.

In O'Brien's place Rolph nominated William P. Roth, San Francisco, president of the Matson Navigation company, whose wife is the owner of a widely known racing stable at Woodside.

"FEAST OF GOLD" BREAKFAST ATTRACTS HUNDREDS

Below is photo taken by Larry Rundell, Register staff photographer, showing more than 500 persons at the outdoor breakfast on Main street, marking the opening of the Fiesta del Oro. The breakfast was staged by the Orange County Breakfast club. The spirit of the old west days was revived by a Spanish program, cowboys and even the old chuck wagon of the days of '49. Hundreds of persons who did not partake of the breakfast may be seen on the sidewalk, listening to the program.

DEATH PENALTY IS DECREED BY KIDNAPER JURY

Abductor Of Kansas City
Girl Convicted; Hanging
Is Recommended

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—(UP)—Death was decreed by a jury here today of Walter H. McGee, convicted of the ransom kidnapping of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of Judge H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City.

The jury returned a verdict finding McGee guilty of plotting and leading the abduction and recommended he be hanged for the crime.

The recommendation is mandatory under Missouri law.

The verdict was the first case in which the death penalty has been invoked in the war against kidnapers.

McGee received the verdict without emotion. He was seated in the courtroom with his mother and sister when the members of the jury filed in to report the decision.

Conviction came just two months after the daring abduction of Miss McElroy, who was seized at her home while other members of the family were absent.

She was taken to an isolated house a few miles west of Kansas City and chained to a basement wall for more than 24 hours while negotiations for her ransom were in progress.

The abductors demanded $50,000 from Judge McElroy, but she was released upon payment of $30,000, most of which was recovered after arrest of McGee and the others charged with participation in the abduction.

Defense attorneys offered no evidence at McGee's trial. He made a confession immediately after his arrest, and no effort was made to set aside the confession.

His attorneys concentrated on a plea to the jury not to recommend the death penalty. They argued that Miss McElroy had not been mistreated during her captivity, and asserted her captors had shown her every possible consideration.

The case was given to the jury at 5:15 p. m. yesterday with a

HELEN JACOBS BEATS MISS CRUICKSHANK

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 27.—(UP)—Frank Shields of New York and Gregory Mangin of Newark will meet tomorrow in the final round of the annual Seabright invitation tennis tournament.

After Mangin had gained the final round with a straight set victory over Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, Shields eliminated Bryan Grant, diminutive Atlanta star, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., and Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, Mass., will meet Saturday in the final of the women's singles.

Miss Jacobs ran through her match with Josephine Cruickshank of Santa Ana, Calif., 6-3, 6-1. Baroness Maud Levi, New York, met defeat at the hands of Miss Palfrey, 6-4, 6-0.

PROCLAMATION

In order to perpetuate the romantic history of Orange county and to keep alive the spirit of the Old West and days of '49, the Fiesta del Oro was launched today. Because I believe this to be a project worthy of the support of every citizen in Santa Ana and Orange county, I, in my official capacity as Mayor of the city of Santa Ana, do hereby proclaim today, tomorrow and Saturday as days set aside for celebrating the "Feast of Gold" and call upon everyone to support it to the utmost.

PAUL WITMER, Mayor.

AIMEE LEAVES TO PREACH AT WORLD'S FAIR

BALTIMORE, Md., July 27.—(UP)—The money came from Angelus Temple, so Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton decided today to leave by train for Chicago, where she intends to do some preaching at the world's fair.

Cash from Los Angeles had been awaited anxiously by Sister Aimee since her arrival from Paris aboard the liner City of Havre yesterday. As soon as she got here she phoned her Pacific coast lieutenants of the Four Square Gospel for funds.

A telegram arrived meantime, said Attorney Willard Andrews, from "an official of the Chicago world's fair."

The official, Andrews continued, asked the bobbed-haired evangelist to preach in "the world's fair auditorium and take the place for a few days of Uldine Utley," the child evangelist who grew up a few years ago.

Andrews said Alexander Pantages, West coast theatrical man, had wired Mrs. Hutton "a high priced offer" to appear in his theaters, "not as an actress, but just to come on the stage and raise funds for the needy."

The attorney also believed that Angelus Temple has reclaimed the 12-cylinder automobile which Mrs. Hutton listed yesterday among the gifts she had lavished on her husband, David, who is suing for divorce.

TIDELANDS LEASING OPPOSE BY SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 27.—(UP)—The state legislature today still was on record against the leasing of state-owned tidelands for oil drilling purposes.

The senate late yesterday upheld action of its revenue and taxation committee when members refused to withdraw a bill which would have ceded to the city of Huntington Beach tidelands owned by the state.

Senator Edgar Stow, Santa Barbara, led the successful fight to kill the bill on the ground the beaches should be protected and that actually the state would receive little in oil royalties because of production limitations now in force against existing oil fields.

APPROPRIATELY, the "Feast of Gold" was launched here this morning with a huge street breakfast, sponsored by the Orange County Breakfast club.

A crowd of nearly 500 persons were seated at tables set on Main street between Fourth and Fifth streets, most of them dressed in gay caballero or cowboy outfits. Several thousand pressed around to hear the elaborate program.

County and city officials, prominent men and women entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of the Fiesta del Oro, becoming for the duration of the Fiesta pioneers, cowboys, plainsmen, caballeros, vaqueros and old timers.

There was Councilman E. G. Warner in a mining outfit, pick slung over his shoulder. Supervisor William Jerome was present attired in a Spanish outfit. Mayor Paul Witmer made his usual lengthy speech by saying "Good Morning."

Business of barbers must have been poor during the past month, according to the number of beards, whiskers, sideburns and other facial adornments sported at the breakfast.

The meeting was opened by President Claude McDowell of the Breakfast club, who introduced Bruce Switzer, who presided until the arrival of Abe Lefton, who won the championship for announcing at the Chicago Fair and who will announce all the events at the Fiesta shows.

Governor Arrives
Following a program by Cally Holden and his movie band, the arrival of Governor Pio Pico, portrayed by Gene Kahen, was announced. The "governor" rode in an ancient carriage, originally owned by the famous California Mexican governor. He was accompanied by a parade of rodeo stars, a stage coach driven by Ed Gaines which ran from San Francisco to San Diego in the old days. Sol Gonzales arrived as the personal representative of President Emanuel Rodriguez of old Mexico. Hunter Leach and his chuck wagon were there, as were two famous rodeo clowns, Ike Lewen and Jess Kell.

Seated on a special stage erected for the occasion, Sol Gonzales and his troubadours and singers entertained throughout the program. Enriqueta Armandarez sang a solo.

A feature of the program was a brief talk on the history of the county by Terry E. Stephenson, Orange county and California history authority. He pointed out that it was singularly appropriate that the Fiesta be launched today as this is the anniversary of Cowboys from the famous Salinas rodeo began arriving here in large numbers today to participate in the hazardous events of the rodeo, which are competitive. In other words, the cowboys have to place to win. Losers get nothing.

Following the grand entry and variety program this afternoon, the program tonight offers entertainment of the highest caliber. First on the program is coronation of the queen, Miss Margaret Sawyer.

the operators and the workers, but dispute after dispute between the oil men themselves. The hearings have been suspended until Monday, and committee representing the conflicting interests are going to be kept hard at work in the meantime.

The oil situation probably will develop into a rigid control to which all elements involved will subscribe. The alternative has been pictured as ruinous competition from which only the most powerful could emerge whole.

Local organizations will be set up along military lines, with generals, colonels, captains and privates carrying the messages of the Blue Eagle, emblem of cooperation in the president's drive, into every factory, store and household.

The gospel of NRA will be preached through the press, radio and motion picture and by thousands of speakers. Toward the end of the campaign, probably about the last week in August, there will be a door-to-door canvass. It will be a sort of "mopping up" operation, to detect slackers and direct housewives to the shopkeepers who are keeping faith with the Blue Eagle.

Committees will be set up in each state to have general supervision over the campaign. Then executive committees will be formed in each city.

By early today more than 4,000,000 of the agreement forms were in the mails, and the remainder were being sent out as fast as the government printing office here could turn out copies. The forms for the New York area were expected to be mailed today.

Distribution will be completed by Saturday recovery administration officials said. The government printing office at San Francisco has dispatched forms to practically all west coast points.

CONSTRUCTION INDUSTRY AIDS RECOVERY PLAN

Price Of Ethyl Gas To Be Cut
SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—(UP)—A one-cent reduction per gallon in the charge for Standard ethyl gasoline will go into effect tomorrow, July 28, the Standard Oil company of California announced here today.

The reduction, applying at all Pacific coast points, cuts from three cents to two cents the differential between ethyl and standard gasoline.

Officials of the major gasoline companies in Santa Ana said today that they had been notified of the reduction in ethyl gasoline and would put the new price scale into effect in all stations tomorrow morning.

All branches of the construction industry are working on industrial codes through the medium of the Orange County Builders' exchange and with the receipt of new information from the public relations department of the National Industrial Recovery act, further meetings will be held.

Frederic Sanford, secretary of the exchange, received a telegram late yesterday to the effect that bulletins, charts of suggested plans of campaign, publicity books, suggested advertising and speakers materials are on the way to the Santa Ana office.

Sanford said that nightly meetings are being held for the purpose of forming codes and that the plumbers, electricians, dump truck operators and master painters had already held meetings.

Walter F. Sorenson, chairman of the Industrial Recovery committee, has appointed a committee to work out the master painter's code, consisting of H. M. Leonard, Garden Grove; Harry Kindig, Anaheim; Harry J. Roberts, Santa Ana, and Sanford, Santa Ana.

Meetings to be held within the next few days will bring together the plasterers, general contractors, cement workers and several other trades, Sanford declared.

SEEK FORECLOSURE OF BEACH PROPERTY

Foreclosure of a mortgage on Newport Beach property, judgment for $7566.20 principal, interest at 10 per cent from October 16, 1932, plus $7.20 paid on bonds against the property, $32 for a title search and $500 attorney's fees are sought in a suit filed in superior court by the Western Loan and Building company. Mrs. Elizabeth Osgood and her husband, W. A. Osgood, are named as defendants.

According to the complaint, on June 21, 1927, the Osgoods signed a note for $10,000, mortgaging their property as security. Payments were kept up until last October, according to the complaint and after that date none have been made.

ing wine, and also the existing beer tax from an increase, failed. The measure passed the senate easily enough but bogged down in the lower house when it ran into a barrage of adverse parliamentary rulings. If passed the measure would have added $3,000,000 to the state's biennial revenue.

Likewise, the proposed dollar increase in the motor vehicle license fee—$4,000,000 biennial yield—was killed in the assembly by an overwhelming vote.

Anxious to prevent an ad valorem tax on all property, the legislature passed the Robinson bill. This measure denied the state board of equalization the right to levy an ad valorem tax to meet an existing deficit while the legislature was not in session. The governor, it was openly predicted, would veto the measure on constitutional grounds.

While one or the other house waited for tax matters to come to a head, they passed a cluster of bills bringing the state into line with the Roosevelt recovery program one group conferred state banking statutes with the Glass-Steagall act passed by congress.

In effect these measures would permit state banks to fully enjoy the benefits of the bank deposit guarantee act.

Another group would set up a "baby" recovery act in California, patterned after the NIRA whereby concerns operating wholly within the state would be governed as to ple everywhere to demand an end to the ruinous races by nations in either military or economic armaments."

He said it was the object of the conference to eliminate these "twin evils" and to substitute prosperity and good-will for panic and trade strife. To relax efforts in this direction, he said, would show an "amazing indifference" to human welfare. If the conference has done nothing else, he said, it must by this time have convinced the average citizen that those who are opposed to practical international economic cooperation have proven to be false prophets.

Hull explained how the processes of exchange and distribution have broken down and how the United States has launched a constructive program to restore its business stability. This restoration cannot be permanently achieved, he said, without cooperation of the other nations.

"Let me say with reference to my own and other countries striving by every available domestic method to extricate themselves from panic conditions that there is no logic in the theory that such domestic policies are irreconcilable with international cooperation," he said.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 27. (To the Editor of The Register:) Wiley Post said "I have an offer on the stage, and I hope no one will criticize me if I take it." Say, after what that little guy went through with, nobody would criticize him even if he turned banker, or took a seat on the stock exchange.

By the way, Mr. Roosevelt has cut the stock market down to three hours a day. They say they did it themselves. Yeah? He just told 'em "now you be good boys. I will give you three hours a day to work on these suckers, and the other twenty-one hours they are under the protection of the fish and game laws."

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

All members agreed as to McGee's guilt immediately after the jury received the case.

Trial of George McGee, brother of the convicted man, on charges of participating in the kidnapping of Miss McElroy was postponed two weeks.

It was to have begun immediately after conclusion of Walter's case.

A third man, Clarence Click, is under arrest and awaiting trial and officers are hunting Clarence Stevens, accused of participating in the abduction plot.

A WORD OF COMFORT

Whether or not you are conscious of it, you cannot avoid helping or harming others by your contact with them. Farmer, 34, welder, 171 Third street, Upland, involved in an automobile accident June 30, last, resulting in the death of John D. Morris, 2108 Kilson Drive, Santa Ana, it was learned today in connection with a verdict rendered yesterday afternoon by a coroner's jury.

The jury held that "the accident could have been avoided if Farmer or had observed the boulevard stop signal," which verdict was being studied by the prosecutor's office, inquiries revealed.

Farmer was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail on a reckless driving charge by the justice's court in Orange, from which sentence an appeal has been taken.

ORANGE COUNTY MEN TO ATTEND CORONA MEET

Headed by Holmes Bishop, representing the citrus department of the Orange County Farm bureau, and Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, a large delegation of citrus growers and shippers will be in attendance tomorrow at the Citrus Institute to be held in Corona.

The institute is being held in the Corona high school auditorium under auspices of the Citrus department of the California Farm Bureau federation, with N. C. Kelley of Corona, as chairman.

The "new deal" as it concerns the citrus industry will be the theme of the institute. Practically all of the talks scheduled for the day will deal with some phase of President Roosevelt's plans for business recovery.

The institute will open at 9:30 a. m. with an address of welcome by Mayor Hucksin. Peter T. Carter will respond on behalf of the farm bureau and D. S. Bell, of Riverside, will respond on behalf of the citrus industry.

During the afternoon session coordination of citrus interests, farm loans and reports on the Washington citrus conference will be presented.

THOUSANDS SEE BIG PARADE OF FIESTA TODAY

Thousands of persons thronged Fourth street this afternoon to see one of the most colorful and gala parades ever given in the city.

Horses, covered wagons, gay costumes and picturesque floats all mingled to open the afternoon program of the first day of the Fiesta del Oro.

Starting at Garfield and Fourth streets, the long caravan paraded west to Parton street and then into the Municipal bowl for the grand march. The flag bearers were the first in line, carrying the American flag, Golden Bear flag and Fiesta del Oro flag.

Music was furnished by the famous Long Beach band, the Southwest Boys' band of Los Angeles and the Spanish troubadours. Covered wagon quartets and other musicians were scattered throughout the parade.

Hundreds of horses and riders took part in the cavalcade and represented all the riding academies and similar organizations.

A large group represented the Irvine ranch, which also had the old chuck wagon used by the Breakfast club this week. Ed Stinson and his prize winning six-horse team and wagon took a prominent place.

Many city and county officials rode horses in the line of march. Sheriff Logan Jackson, Paul Witmer and Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard were a few of the officials in the parade.

J. E. Pleasant, 94 years of age, the only living man in Orange county who came to this country during the gold rush days, received hearty applause as he passed the throngs.

W. A. Wheatley, La Habra, director of the Mutual Orange Distributors, will speak during the morning session and discuss "Credit Basis of California Citrus Groves—A Grower's Viewpoint."

During the afternoon session coordination of citrus interests, farm loans and reports on the Washington citrus conference will be presented.

LAGUNA YACHT HARBOR PLANS ARE DESCRIBED

Preliminary plans for a breakwater to enclose a small yacht harbor were described to the Laguna Beach city council last night by A. J. Stead, engineer for the Laguna Beach County Water district and immediate past president of the Lions club, which inaugurated the project.

It is the hope of the club to borrow the estimated $60,000 that the breakwater would cost through the national public works program and the council was requested to include the project in the city's list of public works.

Mayer Frank B. Champion promised that the matter would be taken under consideration.

Stead traced the site for the proposed breakwater on a map. It would parallel the fishing pier and be close to that structure from the shore line to a huge rock on which the central section of the pier is anchored, a distance of about 350 feet from the shore and then follow a line of rocks in a southeasterly direction a similar distance. The engineer said the breakwater would make a still water harbor about three acres in area for the major portion of the year as the prevailing winds are from the northwest. He admitted that the dyke would not be a protection against the southeast storms of the winter season, but predicted that few boats would wish to anchor at that time. He showed how the breakwater could be extended 1500 feet, at a cost of about $400,000, that would enclose a protected harbor at all seasons.

ORANGE WOMAN IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT

Suffering from a self-inflicted gunshot wound in the head, Mrs. Mary Andrich, 34, wife of George Andrich, operating the Sunshine Broiler on North Glassell street, Orange, this morning was rushed to the Orange county hospital. She is reported in a serious condition.

According to an investigation conducted by the Orange police department, Mrs. Andrich, said to have been despondent, shot herself with a small gun, the bullet entering the right temple. She was found in the rear of the restaurant by Officer G. W. Coltrane, who summoned Chief of Police R. F. Richards. Her husband departed last Sunday for the National Guard encampment at San Luis Obispo, being employed as cook for the troops.

HEARING FOR KELLER IS SET FOR AUGUST 4

Enlivened by a verbal tilt between former District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., and Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel, in charge of the identification bureau were the preliminaries of a scheduled hearing of George Keller, 45, La Jolla salesman, charged with conspiring to violate the corporate securities act, in connection with the sale of alleged worthless stock. A grand theft charge, brought by Mrs. Kety Shoemaker, 418 South Main street, Santa Ana, involving the loss of $5,000, is also pending against the broker.

This morning when the case was called before Justice of Peace Chris Pann, of Huntington Beach, holding court for Justice Kenneth E. Morrison, now on vacation leave, Attorney Franklin G. West, representing the defendant, asked for a continuance of the case on the grounds he had not had sufficient time to acquaint himself with the facts on which the prosecution had based the complaint, and therefore not ready to offer a defense.

His brother and law partner, former District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., disqualified himself as counsel for the defendant on the grounds that he, while holding the office of public prosecutor, had issued a complaint against Keller.

The attempt made by the defendant's counsel to continue the case was vigorously opposed by Deputy District Attorney Leo Prial, who pointed out that his office had brought witnesses from outside places, forced to be away from their work, to aid the state.

Remarks addressed to the court by Zabel in an informal way, uttered in a low voice, aroused the ire of the former district attorney, who demanded that Zabel's remarks to the court be read into the record. The former prosecutor also objected to the method employed by Zabel in approaching the court. The court ordered the remarks stricken from the record.

Following some further preliminaries, the court ordered the case continued to August 4.

LIONS CLUB TOLD OF RECOVERY ACT

A brief explanation of the National Industrial Recovery Act by Homer Cheney featured the meeting of the Santa Ana Lions club yesterday noon at Ketter's cafe.

Introduction of Queen Margaret Sawyer of the Fiesta del Oro, and of Monte Montana, who entertained with rope twirling, and Miss Louise Archer, cowgirl, were other numbers, with Harry Hanson acting as chairman of the day.

Next week's program will be in charge of Bruce Monroe and the feature will be a visit from the Pasadena Lions club. The following week, the Santa Ana Lions will meet on August 2 with the Kiwanis club to hear a talk by Capt. Don Wilkie.

Stressing the spirit of the recovery act, Cheney declared the act was designed to put 12 million people back to work, and urged immediate co-operation of all employers.

ROWLAND TALKS AT MEETING OF ORANGE LIONS

ORANGE, July 27.—Dr. Elliott A. Rowland of Santa Ana, International director of Lions clubs, was the speaker yesterday at the meeting of the Orange Lions club at the American Legion club house, outlining the international outlook for the year.

Dr. Rowland, who returned from the International convention of Lions clubs at St. Louis recently, paid high tribute to Melvin Jones, International secretary through whose efforts, he declared, the disintegration of the international organization had been averted.

The speaker traced the formation of the international association by Jones 12 years ago. There have been times during the past year, Dr. Rowland said, when the outlook for the organization has been very dark, but at present the association is on a sound basis.

At the end of the fiscal year the association will have a balance in its treasury, the speaker said.

National membership of Lions clubs is estimated at 70,000 the speaker said, and at the present time there are 2660 clubs in the United States and Canada.

During the past three months about 500 new members have been added to the clubs monthly, said the director of 100 new clubs have been formed the past year.

Educational programs which concern government are being sponsored by a number of Lions clubs and are proving so successful that meetings are held at night in several cities in order to give people interested an opportunity to attend, said Dr. Rowland.

"I am not in favor of drives for membership," said the speaker in concluding, "but I am in favor of putting on programs so interesting that they will influence civic leaders of the community to become members."

Miss Georgia Belle Walton, Santa Ana violinist, accompanied by Miss Carolyn Mueller of Orange at the piano, gave a musical program, playing "Poeme," by Filsch, "Nocturne" by Lili Boulanger, and "Midnight Bell," by Kreisler.

Burhl Wing was program chairman and Gordon C. Richmond, vice president presided.

There are 10,000 skiffs and 1000 motorboats on the River Thames for the pleasure of London visitors.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting
Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls are the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 900 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external treatments or worry about an operation when McCoy's Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not cure their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

WORK OF CUTTING SEVEN TONS OF APRICOTS BEING FINISHED TODAY ON LUKE SMITH RANCH

ORANGE, July 27.—Work of cutting approximately seven tons of apricots is being finished at the Luke R. Smith ranch on West Chapman avenue this morning, where one of the few remaining apricot camps of the county has been in operation for the past few weeks.

A decade and more ago such camps played an important part in the agricultural life of Orange county, according to Smith, and thousands of tons of apricots were cut by women, boys and girls with short bladed knives which almost have disappeared with the fast diminishing apricot acreage. About 15 women have been employed in cutting this season at the Smith ranch. The apricots are grown on five acres of ground, the acreage having been decreased the past year and planted to walnuts.

Smith says that more fruit has been produced per acre this year than in any of the previous years. The Smith apricot camp has been operated every year for the past 24 seasons.

There is a technique in cutting apricots that was learned by numerous boys and girls of the county who are now grown, it was brought out at the ranch yesterday. The cuts must be cut clearly around and "slipping the pits," a procedure which saved considerable time for cutters who were paid at piece work rates, was considered most unethical as a rough edge was formed where the pit was slipped through the uncut skin of the fruit which was cut but half way around.

The head, snout and eye sockets of the animal are very distinct. The growth evidently was formed by one of the segments of the orange bursting through the skin and forming a separate growth on the outer skin which has remained green while the rest of the orange has colored in the orthodox way.

FREAKISH ORANGE IS EXHIBITED AT FRUIT EXCHANGE

ORANGE, July 27.—An orange declared by employees of the Orange County Fruit Exchange to be the strangest ever brought to the office, is now on exhibition. The orange is topped by a green growth which has assumed the form of a wild animal, which might well have originated in the mind of a science-fiction writer as a creature of another planet.

The head, snout and eye sockets of the animal are very distinct. The growth evidently was formed by one of the segments of the orange bursting through the skin and forming a separate growth on the outer skin which has remained green while the rest of the orange has colored in the orthodox way.

Concordia Beaten In 11 Innings By 20-30 Club Team

ORANGE, July 27.—The meeting of the 20-30 club was adjourned directly after dinner had been served at the Sunshine Broomer last night, members going to the ball field at the Orange Union high school where the 20-30 team played the Concordia team.

The game was continued through the eleventh inning after a tie at the ninth inning. The final score was 6 to 2 in favor of the 20-30 club following a spirited rally by the servicemen.

ATTENDANCE AT PLAY CENTERS IS INCREASED

ORANGE, July 27.—Enrollment at the six playgrounds established July 24 had increased yesterday to 250, a gain of more than 20 over the opening day, according to Stewart N. White, director.

Work at the recreational centers is getting well under way and enrollment is expected to increase all of this week. The largest enrollment this year was at the Maple street school under the supervision of Miss Charlotte Hollister and Ray Cokerley. On the opening day 35 boys and 15 girls were in attendance.

Athletic contests have been started in the various centers and inter-center events are to be staged and are to be interspersed with beach parties.

The centers are open to all children of the community including Villa Park, Olive, El Modena and Orange.

SPRINGDALE

SPRINGDALE, July 28.—One full week was spent at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago by Mrs. J. R. Gary and Mrs. Charles Osgrope of Springdale and Mrs. Gary's daughter, Miss Geneva Gary, and Miss Aloise Walcott, of Compton, who motored east. Car trouble enroute to Chicago caused Mrs. Gary to purchase a new car. Besides the week at the fair she also spent two days in Michigan with relatives of Mr. Gary's, and a days' trip by boat from Chicago to Milwaukee was enjoyed by the entire party.

Richard Nankervis, who has been spending some time with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houser and family, has left for Los Angeles, going to the home of his son, Richard Nankervis, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruoff and son, Edward Ruoff, daughters, the Misses Joanne and Mildred Ruoff, of this place, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ruoff and children, of Garden Grove, attended the wedding of Miss Virginia Ruoff and William Galst on Wednesday. Both young people are of Los Angeles.

OCEANVIEW

Four tables of cards entertained at the Unemployment card party held Monday evening at the commissary with Mrs. Franklin winning women's first prize and Mrs. Boyer, the second; Mr. Boyer, men's first prize and O. Jensen, men's second prize.

Women of the Unemployment association are busily engaged in quilting another quilt.

A trip into the fruit district made by representatives of the Unemployment association failed to bring in anything for canning and no work on this order has been done so far this year by the commissary group. There are still over 100 families enrolled on the association roster with one new family registering this week.

The bride being a niece of Albert Ruoff and the daughter of Mrs. Ora Ruoff at whose home the ceremony was performed at 1:30 o'clock. Both the bride and groom are frequent visitors at the Albert Ruoff home.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, July 27.—Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Warren are to leave Monday on a trip to Jortland, Ore., where they are to visit relatives. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Warren's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gilbert, of Rialto.

Mrs. C. Wesley Kolkhorst, Mrs. Ernest Rose and Mrs. E. H. Smith attended a carnival and supper in the home of Mrs. Elmer Wright at Fullerton last night, the affair having been sponsored by the Fullerton White Shrine.

Miss Charlotte Eck of Miami, Ohio, Miss Jane Wheeler and Miss Vivian Wheeler of West Carlton, Ohio, returned the first of the week from Mexico where they spent a part of the time at Agua Caliente.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Burns McAlay and children are enjoying a vacation at Idyllwild. They are expected to return to Orange next month.

Mrs. H. G. Chandler of the Orange Inn, is nearly recovered from injuries she received in a fall in her yard recently.

Miss Roberta Forbes of Martin, Texas, is a guest in the home of her uncle, E. R. Forbes. Forbes and daughters, Louise and Edna, recently returned from Houston, Texas, and their guest returned with them.

CHURCH CLASS HOLDS MEET AT HIGGINS HOME

ORANGE, July 27.—The Westminster class of the First Presbyterian church held its monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. C. O. Powell, North Cambridge street, Tuesday with Mrs. W. O. Higgins as co-hostess. An inspection of the home which was recently completed was one of the pleasant features of the day. A covered dish luncheon was served at small tables.

The day was spent in working on a quilt and in making articles which are to be sent to the children of lepers in a colony in India which is under the supervision of the Rev. Samuel Higginbottom. The articles are to be sent for Christmas with toys made by the pupils of the Daily Vacation Bible school under the supervision of Mrs. Cal J. Lester the past summer.

The next meeting of the group will be held in the summer home of Mrs. Henry Meiers at Laguna Beach on August 29. I've always found that really good reasons are the simplest reasons. For instance, I know that sunshine mellows and heat purifies. "Toasting" is therefore very easy for me to understand. And very easy for me to appreciate—because—my sense of the fastidious is so very exacting. You see, I'm always aware of the fact that my cigarette comes in such intimate contact with my lips. Quite naturally, it's the purity of "Toasting" that I single out for special praise. It's just my own personal feminine reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

WASHINGTON
By George Durns

KIDNAPING

The gentlemen who don false whiskers and gum shoes for Uncle Sam are preparing themselves very quietly for what has the earmarks of being a dirty and bloody war. The Federal heel skipped lightly over bootleggers. It will make every effort to stamp out baby snatching and hop peddling. Both are terrifically on the increase.

Without the slightest iota of publicity officials of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice have just won an important victory.

This Bureau for some time has distributed to other Federal agencies and to police departments all over the land regular and comprehensive criminal reports and fingerprint records. They have proven invaluable in running criminals to earth.

Recently in the name of economy the appropriation for this work was slashed. Chief J. Edgar Hoover went to bat with the Budget Bureau and had it restored.

ROUND-UP
The Bureau of Investigation is doing yeoman work in tracking down kidnap gangs. With a little public cooperation it could do more.

When the present wave of abductions first got under way the Bureau broadcast an appeal that any family thus victimized call Washington headquarters by telephone immediately. It was promised that all work on the case would be heavily under cover.

The family of August Luer, aged Alton, Ill., banker, was the first to respond. It took Justice agents just ten days to round up the mob responsible.

SNOW
Narcotics headquarters already has felt an increase in the vicious business of dispensing dope.

With countless drug stores not bothering about the formality of prescriptions to sell good whiskey the bootlegger is feeling a decided pinch in his pocketbook even at this early day. Bear has contributed to the anemia of his bankroll. He is turning to "snow" vending.

The Secret Service is running into an inflationary movement in counterfeit money. The bottle reasons that if you can't make whiskey and sell it for five dollars just save time and start manufacturing the five-spots.

All three services are exchanging information with deadly seriousness. All three have orders from the White House to put the finger on kidnapers.

MOLEY

A person can't dodge into an air-cooled araway in Washington these days without having someone pop up and ask him: "How about Ray Moley? Is he losing out at the White House?"

Debates over this moot question are flourishing in every hotel room where the appointed gather to shed the cares of an official day.

Best opinion is that the professional Assistant Secretary of State will continue to be in evidence and toss weights on the scales. However, his car doesn't appear parked in the White House drive as it used to, and the following two unpublished stories may be illuminating:

FLAGGED

When President Roosevelt was cruising last month on the Amber-ton, it will be remembered Moley flew up the Maine coast to see him before starting for the London Economic Conference.

One of the Roosevelt convoy destroyers dropped back to pick Moley up. When it dove into sight of the Presidential flotilla Moley began chafing to be taken off and over to the Roosevelt schooner.

A lot of wig-wagging went back and forth between the Moley destroyer and the one standing guard.

Finally Moley demanded that he be informed who was holding up his progress to the President's side. His query was wig-wagged over.

Back came the terse answer, flag by flag: "The President."

SPECTACULAR

While still on the boat crossing, Moley cabled for a plane to meet him at Cobb and fly him to London. News dispatches speculated on the importance of the message he was carrying to the Conference.

At the last minute—in fact so late the plane already had left London to meet the boat and had to be paid for—it was cancelled.

Those who should know tell you in distinctly lowered voices that President Roosevelt was responsible for the cancellation. The Executive apparently felt the Conference should not be buoyed up unduly by such a spectacular entry.

EXPLOSIVES

General Hugh Johnson, who is guiding National Recovery, is known to his intimate associates as the kindest of men. Like many of those individuals who measure 96 around the heart he explodes like a firecracker under a little fire but as promptly returns to tranquility.

One of the country's important men ran into this the other day. Seated at Johnson's desk he disagreed with certain theories the General was expounding. Bloomy, and NRA's chief was roaring at him like a bull.

The calm came as suddenly as the storm. His visitor was still puzzling, a little sore himself, when a scene was enacted that explained everything.

The General is just naturally intense, what with all the pressure he's under. His phone rang. He tried to answer it, light a cigarette and put on his glasses simultaneously.

With the aid of Alexander Sachs, NRA economist who was present, this hot mean feat was accomplished. While Johnson picked up the phone receiver he had dropped, Sachs shoved his glasses on, restored a hat to the place whence it had been knocked from the desk and gave final aid with a lighted match.

NOTES

Dan Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, is put out no end with Railroad Administrator Joe Eastman. Eastman served notice recently that salaries of rail executives were to take a healthy sock. Willard tells his friends privately it isn't this proposition; it's the way Eastman put it. He thinks our Federal rail man was "too crude and blunt." Politicians from Washington State are up in arms over the suggestion Senator Clarence Dill may quit the upper house to head the Coulee Dam development. This is in the Columbia Basin and would be similar to the Tennessee Valley project. His office here is being flooded with mail to the effect he's too close to the administration to be let out of the Senate.

NEW YORK
By John McMullin

WAGES

There is strong support here for the two different sets of minimum wage scales now in the offing. One will apply to workers aged 16 to 20, the other to adults.

Industries using the pay of office boys and other junior workers as a standard for people with families to support can expect pointed criticism from powerful financial quarters. It is becoming accepted that distinctions will be enforced privately as well as from Washington.

New Yorkers who have been working with NRA say the authorities are fully aware of the danger that the minimum wage might tend to become the average wage. None of those concerned have any intention of permitting this to happen. Prophets who predict we will become a nation of $14-a-weekers are on the wrong track.

HOURS

How short is a shorter week? That question has raised more inside hell in confidential discussions between NRA and labor than any other.

Labor has generally maintained that a general 30-hour—or at most 34-hour—week is absolutely essential as a cure for unemployment. The government sees the point and independent local experts agree. But industry swears by all that is holy that such a readjustment would be ruinous and threatens a strenuous battle if an issue is made of it.

What will happen is this: Industry will be permitted to get by with 35- and 40-hour weeks in the interests of voluntary cooperation and quick action. The battle that the die-hards would otherwise put up would seriously menace the whole recovery program. Labor will continue to fight a rear-guard action for the 30-hour plan but will not get too tough about it when it loses. Labor leaders have been sold the idea that open hostilities would be suicidal.

But neither labor nor the government will abandon the ultimate objective. The retreat is purely strategic. Once the recovery program is in swing a broad campaign will be started to educate industry and the public to the need for further downward revision of working hours.

live stability as between the dollar and the pound is dangerously close to the rocks. English exporters have made their government's life miserable with complaints that the high exchange rate was choking the life out of them. Their trade guns are spiked in competition with us.

Insiders say that J. P. Morgan's chat with Mr. and Mrs. Norman of the Bank of England had more than a casual bearing on this topic. There is good authority for believing that Morgan tried to sell the idea of cooperation rather than competition. The evidence is that he didn't succeed.

BRITAIN

Britain's offer to convert $126,000,000 in dollar bonds to sterling obligations is seen here as a cleverly camouflaged opening salvo.

The offer sounds generous. It gives Americans a virtual call on sterling at $3.85 for four years. Reduction of the interest rate from 5 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent isn't stressed.

The arrangement is an inducement to Americans to sell the pound short with practical assurance that they can cover at $3.85. This should tend to force the dollar up against the pound. Maybe that's what Neville Chamberlain meant when he said the dollar would rise from natural causes.

High quarters in New York and Washington are privately discussing what can be done to counteract the British move. No decision has been reached yet but you can bet that something will be worked out.

SIDELIGHTS

Here's news. A Columbia professor turned down a job with NRA. Said he wasn't a dollar-a-year man. A confidential survey shows that the sales of advertised food and drug products are going up much faster than private brands and bulk goods. More advertising is in sight. Copyright, 1933, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

CRAZY OVER HORSES
Had the gentleman who wrote that once popular song, "Crazy Over Horses," waited until 1933 he would have been far too dizzy to write anything. Maybe he was thinking of a Crusader, but today, the antics of Head Play, Mr. Khayyam, War Glory, Plucky Play and others too numerous to mention would send him bustling to some nice quiet place like the village not house.

Horses during this year of upsets and form reversals have certainly dealt the form players plenty of body blows. The three-year-olds have been the worst offenders, but plenty of the older horses—and younger ones too—have been indulging in anti-form pranks.

IN AND OUT
Take a list of the country's great three-year-old stakes as a beginner. Cutting out some of the smaller ones you have left: The Kentucky Derby, Preakness, Belmont Stakes, Dwyer, Withers, American Derby, Latonia Derby and Arlington Classic.

Not one of the country's so-called top horses was able to win two of these races. Brokers' Tip won the Derby, Head Play the Preakness (Brokers' Tip last), Mr. Khayyam made a monkey out of Head Play in the American Derby, and then ran last in an allowance race, War Glory ran away from his field in the Dwyer and then lost his next two starts. The Belmont was won by an erstwhile claiming horse named Hurryfoot, The Derby won by the Withers and Inlander the Classic.

YOU FIGURE IT OUT
Now here's what makes the form player feel as though he'd been in the corner of either Mr. Schmeling or Mr. Sharkey. If Head Play could win the Preakness with the greatest exhibition since Man o' War, how is it he is now unable to beat but one horse in a 12-horse field?

And if War Glory could run away from his field in the mile and a half Dwyer Stakes, setting all the pace, and turning on more power in the stretch, how is it he got tired after the first mile in his next race?

Well, and for that matter, what made Mr. Khayyam suddenly decline the issue in two races and run last in another, after setting a track record in the Chesapeake Stakes, and giving Head Play two sound beatings?

AGE NO HELP
And there are the older horses. Plucky Play still is breaking the hearts of the form players. Maybe you remember that during the last two years he limited his victories to races in which he whipped Galant Knight, Sun Beau, Equipose and Fairbro? Well this year in his first start he beat a good field, carrying top weight of 124 pounds, and being a long shot, too.

But in his next start, dropping nearly 20 pounds, and facing poorer competition, he was next to last—"still running," as they say.

And if you're not too punch drunk by this time, tell this poor mentality "how come this Indian Runner?" A bang-up two-year-old. As a three-year-old a common player. As a four-year-old, next to Equipose, the outstanding horse of the year.

Fear Hornsby Failure With Browns

BELIEVE RAJAH TOO IMPATIENT FOR WEAK CLUB

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, July 27.—(INS)—After what seems to have been a great deal of distress and perplexity, the St. Louis Browns went out and hired a name to manage their ball club; not essentially a developer of unimproved property but a driver, an inspirationalist; a younger and, therefore, more violent John J. McGraw.

This is not intended to be the prelude to an attack on Rogers Hornsby but, on the contrary, something that may conceivably be of benefit to him. Since it may suggest an idea that he may have neglected to mention to the club that has just hired him. This hopelessly last-place outfit doesn't need Hornsby to lead it. What it needs is somebody to follow. The man's personality and record clearly indicate that he is not a good manager for a bad ball club.

For that matter, almost nobody is, but, on the other hand, I can think of a few exceptions. Connie Mack, from time to time, has been rather noteworthy in this connection. Bill McKechnie still is, McGraw wasn't and never could be. Neither could Cobb.

They, like Hornsby, are men of action, momentum and the abiding urge to win. This is so deeply ingrained that none of them ever learned how to lose, with the result that defeat becomes a great personal sorrow and failure causes them to rave and rant like a fishwife.

With certain types, the method is effectual but these are generally fighters themselves to whom a certain amount of normal bickering is an expected part of the day and not only are they inspired by abuse but some of them even manage to feel secretly flattered. Still, the courageous loser is not a conspicuous type in any walk of life and the rest of us neither like to suspect that we are bad nor do we care about having the top hand confirm this.

Hornsby, anyhow, was a good fighting manager in 1926. The Cardinals of 1926 were a good fighting ball club. The Braves of 1928 were very bad before Hornsby took charge. After that, they became steadily worse because, it was said, they weren't Hornsby's kind. Neither were the Cubs, although they won for McCarthy right before Hornsby's time and for Grimm right afterward.

In any case, it seems that Hornsby soon lost all patience with them, which brings up the question of how much he can possibly have left for a ball club that is 27 games back of first place.

PARIS, July 27.—(UP)—Andre Merin, France, and H. W. ("Bunny") Austin, Great Britain, will meet in the opening singles match of the Davis Cup challenge round tomorrow. It was announced today.

Henri Cochet, France, and Fredrick Perry, Great Britain, will follow.

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, France, will meet Perry and G. P. Hughes in the doubles Saturday.

Cochet will meet Austin and Merin will meet Perry in singles Sunday.

The French were slight favorites today to retain the cup, due to their superiority in the doubles. British hopes were based on the chance that Austin or Perry could beat Cochet. Both are expected to beat Merin.

CHICAGO, July 27.—(UP)—Once Tommy Loughran was the world's finest boxer, but today the Philadelphia Adonis is an old man of the prize ring, his fighting machinery worn out after 14 years.

Loughran was beaten last night at Mills stadium by Johnny Risko, a letter-winner, a checkup disclosed today.

This is a smaller number of serious athletes than at Troy, which lost more than 50 lettermen by graduation last year, and coaches will find no serious inroad in their material.

Five football letter-winners were lost from the '32 squad as compared with 13 missed from the squad the previous year. Track losses were also much less, nine lettermen being graduated from this season's team as compared with 18 the previous season.

Among outstanding Trojan athletes finishing their career are All-American Ernie Smith and Captain Jay Brown, football tackle; Orv Mohler, football and baseball star and student body president; Ray Sparling, football end; Duncan McNaughton, Olympic high jump champion; Bill Graber, whose mark of 14 feet, 4 3/8 inches still is the highest ever reached by a vaulter; Bob Van Osdol, Olympic high jump star; George Buchanan, one of the west's leading college pitchers; Del Mar Reynolds, who has figured prominently in coast fencing ranks; Jerry Nemer, all-coast basketball forward for three years; "Bud" Lawson, former Southern California intercollegiate golf champion; and Al Chaffon, leading college ice hockey star of the West for the past three years.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(UP)—For the third time in his lengthy career as an automobile racing driver, Ernie Triplett, twice coast champion, appeared to have cheated death today.

The veteran driver, twice previously pronounced injured beyond hope of recovery, was involved in an accident at Ascot last night which for a time appeared would prove fatal.

Triplett and Al Gordon, racing neck and neck in the 33rd lap of the 50-lap feature event, locked wheels on a turn. Triplett was thrown 75 feet through the air to land in a crumpled heap on the track.

Gordon, driver of the second car, was uninjured, although his car was wrecked.

VERGEZ OF GIANTS BEATEN BY CARROLL

NEW YORK, July 27.—(INS)—A medical report was to be made today on the condition of Johnny Vergez, third baseman of the New York Giants, who was knocked unconscious yesterday when hit on the head by one of Owen Carroll's fast balls in the second game of a twin bill with Brooklyn. Although Vergez made light of his injuries, he was under observation last night and an x-ray was taken.

CONSERVES ENERGY

Jean Borotra, below, colorful veteran of French Davis Cup tennis victories, held fast to his decision not to play singles in this year's challenge round. He will confine his activity to the doubles Saturday when France and England play what is expected to be the deciding match of the series.

NEW YORK, July 27.—In line with the prevailing suspicion that Mr. Joe Jacobs may be doing it the hard way by endeavoring to hold another Schmeling-Baer prize fight without Schmeling, comes the information today that Mr. Jacobs is around telling everybody that he's going to be the matchmaker at Madison Square Garden.

That's one angle of the situation. Another is that a syndicate is understood to have been trying to buy the controlling interest in the Garden, with Mr. Jacobs in line to run its boxing.

Either way, it doesn't look as though the man reposes a great deal of confidence in Schmeling's deep-seated wish to come back from the face. As long as he had $31-2 per cent of Schmeling, the fighter, his interest in match-making jobs was naturally at a standstill. But $31-2 per cent of Schmeling, the bridegroom, is liable to be very little.

The reported attempt to buy out the Garden, as I understand it, has wound up somewhere down along the right field foul line, owing to a slight difference of opinion over the price, amounting to no more than perhaps a million dollars. The buyers, in fact, offered to pay the market price of $4 a share, whereas the Garden said it would consent to take $10.

So everybody concerned probably offered to forget about it for nothing.

But whether Jacobs is moving into the Garden or only thinks he is, there seems to be very small doubt on another point. Mr. James J. Johnston is almost certainly moving out. Like a great many inmates of this comical town, his lease expires October 1.

JOE JACOBS TO BE N. Y. GARDEN MATCHMAKER?

WILL HE BE NEXT?

Bill Killifer was guillotined by the St. Louis Browns "Gabby" Street got the air from the St. Louis Cardinals. Now Dave Rumor whispers that Max Carey (below) of the Brooklyn Dodgers will be the next major league manager to lose his job.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Relaxation, that gentle art which enables grandpa to drop her knitting and catch a little snooze in the middle of the day, and not great lung and leg power, is the secret of Bill Bonthron's success as a middle distance runner.

This is not our opinion. It belongs to Dan Wheeler, the trainer who prepares Princeton's athletes—football, baseball, track, golf and basketball—for the wars. It was Dan who prepared Bonthron for the 4:08 mile he ran in losing to Jack Lovelock, and it was Dan who worked on him after that race and, an hour later, sent him out to win the half-mile in 1:53.

Bonthron Never Tense
Dan says of all the men he has ever worked on, Bonthron is the "best relaxer." "He's got a great build and amazing stamina," Wheeler told us, "but so have hundreds of other runners who never turned a mile in better than 4:15. The difference is Bill's ability to relax. When he goes to the post in a race he's as much at ease as a cat stretched out on the hearthside. There's no tenseness, no rigidity. And he's the same at the end of the race. The average runner ends a grueling race all in a knot, and it's hours before his muscles regain their looseness."

"But not Bill. When he came in for a shower after that blistering mile with Lovelock, he was exhausted, but there was no tension. If there had been he couldn't have gone back out and won the half."

We asked Wheeler about Lovelock—was the Australian a "relaxer?"

"Yes, he's just like Bonthron. Nothing worries him. And like Bill, he leads a fairly normal life in keeping in condition."

Defeat Surprise to Trainer
"Both of them eat about the same sort of food the average fellow eats, and keep the same sort of hours. Incidentally, the medicine ball is Bonthron's favorite means of exercise. He works with one hour every day."

Did Bonthron's defeat by Lovelock surprise Dan?

"Yes, it did. I worked on both of them a couple of days before the race and Bonthron seemed to me much more powerful than I didn't see how he could lose. You know how the Australian is built. He's a pretty slight fellow, and doesn't look like a chap geared for distance."

"But my, my, his looks are deceiving. I never saw a greater demonstration of strength, style and courage than Lovelock put on in that sprint down the home stretch. Wait a minute—maybe I have seen a greater demonstration at that. I'm speaking of Bonthron's race in the half mile when, less than an hour after losing to Lovelock he came back to win after being left at the post. It didn't seem possible, but he's that sort of man."

Noble Sets New Amateur Record For Willowick

It's a wise owner that knows his own golf course.

Ralph Noble, proprietor of the Willowick Golf club, proved that when he shattered the amateur record for the West Fifth street public layout yesterday.

Noble circled the links in 67, four under par. Going out in 33 and home in 34, Noble made five birdies and was over par only on No. 8.

The course record is held by Harold Hiser, Willowick's pro. He recently shot a 64.

Mrs. Fred Austin won Willowick's medal play for women Wednesday. She had a low gross of 98. Mrs. H. B. Bradley's 103-26-77 was low net.

YANKS, SENATORS IN FOUR-GAME SERIES

NEW YORK, July 27.—(UP)—The Washington Senators, enjoying a one-game American league lead over New York, were slight favorites to win the season's first "crucial" series, opening today with the Yankees at Washington.

Although each club has 62 games remaining, this four-game series was called "crucial" by the experts because it was expected to show the relative strength of the two pennant rivals and to indicate which will win most of their eight later meetings.

These 12 hand-to-hand combats may determine the pennant winner if Washington and New York continue to play on even terms against other clubs.

Weekend MURDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When elderly Amos Peabody falls to his death from the balcony of the Long Island home Linda, Tom's wife, believes it is murder. Peabody was her cousin. Rushing to the balcony, Linda feels something thrown about her throat, almost strangles and faints.

She and Tom decide to pretend Cousin Amos' death was an accident, meanwhile devoting themselves to solving the crime. They have four guests, all of whom become suspects: Mr. Statlander, business associate of Tom's; Captain DeVos, handsome Belgian; Marvin Pratt, former suitor of Linda's; and Lian Shaughnessey, Irish writer. On one excuse and then another the guests are persuaded to finish out their week-end visit.

Linda finds the towel with which the attempt was made to strangle her (identified by a smear of sun-burn ointment) in Statlander's bathroom. Tom, suspicious of Shaughnessey, searches his room. The Irishman discovers the towel and matters right Linda tells him the whole story, asking him to help swing in on the wind. Linda and Amos opened a French window that evening in the wind. A loud, disturbing sound, Tom question all the guests but learn little. Linda feels discouraged but Shaughnessey reassures her. "There's proof somewhere," he says, "and one of you will find it!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLV

"I suppose he's right," Tom had listened attentively to Linda's report of her talk with Shaughnessey. "After all the murder happened yesterday morning and by last night we had a line on all of them. I think Shaughnessey's definitely out of it. Linda, simply because he couldn't have gotten up to the room Friday night, or rather Saturday morning, without one of us hearing him. When you think back and see how the small sounds that were made were magnified by the quiet of the house you can see that a man couldn't come in through the screen door."

"That is, allowing you forgot to lock the door—"

"Yes. I wish I could remember! And I can't mention it to Shaughnessey because it would show I still have suspected him—"

"Well, anyhow, as you started to say—the screen door bangs!"

"That's it—unless you hold it with your hand, which you know he wouldn't think to do. If he had, he would have had to creep up the stairs without either of us hearing him—"

"In other words, it would have been deliberate—which is exactly what we feel sure it wasn't."

"But as for Statlander—in spite of the trouble with his hearing I'm again undecided. That man has something on his mind! He had the most curious air about him—very important and—what shall I call it?—valetudinary, as we went over the papers. He was doing nothing less than giving me a full, detailed report of his entire work as manager of Valeska's middle-west factory—from the day he came. Systems, buying, profits, employment—everything. Now a man doesn't go away for a pleasant week-end and launch into a rehearsal like that—back to the year one—unless his mind is somehow disturbed and he feels it his last chance to get it off his chest."

"Guilty conscience?"

as far as t ofehifecicshshshshru as far as the office is concerned. He certainly gave me the impression that he had arranged to leave everything in my hands in perfect shape. I'd say it was the habit of mind of a person who always has been systematic and is suddenly faced with the possibility of a break in the routine. He may not anticipate arrest but he's acting as he would if he did."

"He is the only one who showed the slightest sign of knowing what I was driving at when I made him talk about it all," mused Linda. "He didn't start and flush and act like a villain on the stage but he wasn't a bit anxious to go over the ground and I'm convinced he saw perfectly well what I was leading up to. The nearer I got to the heart of the matter the more restive he was."

"There are two things I hold against him still," said Tom slowly. "The way he said 'nothing' when you asked if he'd found anything. Remember, Linda? He afterwards admitted to the towel, apparently without seeing that he had contradicted himself—"

"Yes. And what was the other?"

"The way he turned away from the railing when he was straightening it up, according to Shaughnessey's account. That's one of those curious, unnecessary acts that often reveal a lot—and it's also the sort of thing no one could make up."

"But you didn't notice when he appeared in pyjamas and bathrobe that he looked as if he'd had a tussle?"

"He'd have had time to fix up if he'd shown the marks of one. Of all of them, his escape would be easiest. His room is right across from the nursery. He could slip in there and tidy up in the time I was coming up the lawn and then join us later."

"Tom—" She made a gesture of weariness and distress. "You're going round and round."

"I know, Binks—but I honestly think we're going further ahead each time. Like a spiral staircase, ed, darling! You've done your best—and honestly, Tom—something, something, is going to happen! That's my hunch and you've got to believe it!"

He attempted to show the confidence for which she appealed but the effort was not an entire success.

"Perhaps. Well—we can't do anything right now. You're having dinner a little early, aren't you, to get DeVos off? I'm sorry he's going out. It sort of spoils things—at least I'd like everyone here and every chance—this last hour or two."

"No way we could stop him without telling him what was up," Linda gave her nose the final dab of powder before she joined him at the door. "We're so obviously doing nothing and he couldn't be expected to turn down an attractive invitation even if he weren't so smitten with Fleur."

"I think with Fleur's millions! I smitten with a cold and calculating customer."

"Oh, but, Tom, she is quite a charmer! You have to admit that!"

"I don't see it," he asserted stoutly. "You've got twice the looks and can put it all over her for style and—well, all-round sport-ingness. She's all for herself and doesn't even know how to hide it."

"She won't be able to put over much on him if she lands him—or if he lands her. They'll be a pair."

"I wish them joy of each other. Hurry, Binks!"

"You're always saying 'Hurry, Binks! I'm all ready!'"

"Then come along. You were the one who wanted dinner early."

Wrangling amicably, they started out together. On the stairway they overtook Mr. Statlander going down ahead of them.

"Ah—Mr. Averill!" he exclaimed. "I just had you in mind. If you have a moment before dinner—there was one point I omitted to make as to sales during the past six months in our survey this afternoon. I can cover the ground very quickly—"

"I wonder if you'd mind waiting a moment—or even until after dinner?" Tom's smile was his most winning and the other, after coughing rather potently, seemed willing to cede the point.

"I want to run the car out from the garage so that it will be ready when Dea Vos comes down. You can explain, Binks—I'll be right back."

"You see, Mr. DeVos is dining out," said Linda patiently. "He'll leave about the time our dinner is over and if Tom has the car out he won't have to leave the table early or keep Mr. DeVos waiting. Besides dinner must be nearly ready—in a few moments, now. So let's sit down and put off business till afterwards."

Through the green door, she saw Tom disappear into the garage and she could not help noticing with a throb of wifely pride how well he carried himself, the fine balance of his broad shoulders and narrow hips and the undoubted distinction in the way he wore even ordinary and conventional clothes. For the moment she did not hear what Mr. Statlander was saying in his rather stiff, measured speech until the word "nursery" caught her ear and she came back to answer at random what she thought he must have said.

"Oh, yes, Mr. Statlander. It isn't the nursery you're to have, though. It's the guest room at the other end of the hall. We spoke of the nursery first but you preferred the other—"

"I understand, Mrs. Averill," He spoke with the forced patience one gives an inattentive child. "I am expecting to spend the night there, at your suggestion, and am quite ready to move any time. But what I said was this—your speaking of Mr. DeVos put it into my mind—it is probably irrelevant but our talk about what happened after Mr. Peabody's fall reminded me of something that struck me as curious at the time. I wondered then and have wondered since why when Mr. DeVos joined us in the guest room after your collapse, he seemed to come from our end of the hall instead of from his own room which I understand adjoins the other. I had thought perhaps—the nursery—just as I myself—the heat—toward the water—"

The firm, clear, self-important voice went on and on but every drop of blood in Linda's body seemed arrested in its course through her veins. In her ears the beating of her heart seemed stupendous, deafening. "Tom—Tom!" She did not know whether she had spoken aloud or mutely called out to him.

BROADWAY WILL RECEIVE LATE SOUND DEVICES

Manager Lester J. Fountain of the Broadway theater announced today that the installation of Western Electric wide range sound, the new sound system that is revolutionizing talking pictures is now being made in the theater. Workmen started yesterday placing the new equipment in the theater.

In explaining the significance of this installation for his patrons, Manager Fountain said: "Wide range is the new sound system upon which the scientist and engineers of the Bell Telephone laboratories and the Western Electric company have been working for the past five years."

"It represents the biggest step made to date towards perfection in recording and reproducing sound in talking pictures and can be compared, in importance, only with the introduction of talking pictures themselves."

"Wide range means that low and high sounds can be recorded at their natural level, eliminating distortion," Fountain said. "All sounds will be heard now, that we have the new equipment and patrons of the Broadway theater will at once appreciate the new apparatus, once they hear it."

The Broadway is the first theater in Orange county to install wide range, and is one of the first in the United States.

"The Devil's Brother" is a picturization of Auber's famous comic opera "Fra Diavolo" and Dennis King, famous singer and Thelma Todd have the other important leads in the production.

Alarm Caused By Gun Practice Of Fleet Off Shore

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 27.—Gun practice by the fleet off shore here caused alarm in the city last night. The concussion was so great that houses in the city were badly shaken, windows rattled and plaster weakened by the earthquake was shattered in many homes.

The fleet was closer in than usual and conditions were right for the concussion of the big guns to be more effective than usual. The navy department also practiced with airplane targets over the city and ocean yesterday. One plane dragged the cigar target and other planes followed, turning their machine guns on the target. Naval gun practice has been on several days.

DRY WORKERS TO CONTINUE LIQUOR FIGHT

Formation of a permanent organization to carry on the work of the Santa Ana Dry association will be completed in the near future, following action taken at a meeting held by the group Monday night at the Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. C. D. Hicks, pastor of the Christian Missionary Alliance church and president of the association, will appoint a committee of five to create the new body. The temporary organization was formed before the last election.

The new group will wage an active campaign to encourage business men who do not sell beer, wine or other alcoholic liquors. Members will be urged to subscribe and patronize the publications which are free from liquor advertising, and oppose in every legal manner the distribution of such publications.

Members present at the meeting incorporated their ideas into the following resolution, which was passed unanimously:

"Resolved by Santa Ana Dry association, that this association advocates active continuance of its efforts to promote temperance and in favor of the prohibition of the use, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and that to that end we advocate the following policy and rules of conduct of our members and of all persons desiring to promote temperance and prohibition:

"First, to encourage and patronize those merchants and business men who do not advertise in publications which carry liquor advertisements.

"Second, to patronize those places of business which do not sell beer, wine or other alcoholic liquors for beverage purposes.

"Third, to subscribe for and patronize those publications that do not carry liquor advertisements.

"Fourth, to oppose in every legal manner possible the distribution by carriers or otherwise of any publication carrying liquor advertisements."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or other pills and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in hives. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Remotest substitute. 25¢ at drug stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

4 TALKS GIVEN AT SESSION OF TOASTMASTERS

Opinions voiced by members of the Toastmasters' club ranged from frank scepticism to ardent approval and complete confidence in the table talks Wednesday evening when the topic was the National Industrial Recovery act.

Following a brief craft talk and life history by Harold Sturzeneger, newest member, four prepared addresses were on the evening's program. Dr. C. J. Raley relinquished the gavel to Fred Eley, toastmaster for the program, who introduced Harry Fink, assistant chief of police, whose topic was "American Police Problems." Fink compared the diversity of populations with which American officers have to deal in contrast with the similarity of nationalities within European cities as constituting the gravest problem in combating crime. He cited figures in support of his assertions.

Harvey W. Emley, second speaker, told of the problems of rearing children in broken homes, and his subject "Another New Deal" called for more earnest and careful study of child problems and the methods required to deal with them. Emley used an actual case in illustration and spoke approvingly of the work being done by Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. for the youth of the country.

"Attitudes and Life" was the subject used by William H. "Bill" Wright in an effort to convince his hearers that material success is not an imperative goal and that it may oftentimes be more substantially achieved when it becomes a by-product with the giving of service the major purpose. Like the preceding speaker, he gave an illustration from personal observation of the advantages of more consecration, less profit incentive and more service.

Dr. Raley, president of the club, was granted 10 minutes instead of the usual six minutes in which to develop his topic, which was "The House of Morgan." He asserted that America has adopted the ethics of the wolf pack and prophesied that a continuance of this attitude would within a century dry up the milk of human kindness completely.

Critics were A. G. Green, Dean Campbell, Lee Hewitt, James Anderson, Ernest S. Wooster and Robert Speed.

REBEKAHS INSTALL INCOMING LEADERS

Installation of officers for Aloha Rebekah lodge brought out approximately 150 persons Tuesday evening with visitors present from three neighboring lodges, Torosa, and Sycamore, Santa Ana and the Anaheim lodge.

Mrs. Mildred Allen, new district deputy president and her staff installed the following into office: Mrs. Ruth Sennec, Noble Grand; Mrs. Etta Henderson, Vice Grand; Mrs. Evelyn Wardlow, Fin. sec.; Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, rec. sec.; Mrs. Estella Arnett, treas.; appointive officers, Mrs. Linda McDaniel, warden; Mrs. Frankie Van Uden, conductor; Mrs. Nellie Morgan, chaplain; Mrs. Lula Nankervis, R. S. N. G.; Mrs. Ruth Goble, L. S. N. G.; Mrs. Mae Mansperger, R. S. Y. G.; Mrs. Alice Hare, L. S. Y. G.; Mrs. Cordelia Slate, inside guard; Mrs. Maud Michl, outside guard.

Miss Lillian Arnett was the recipient of the Past Noble Grand's pin and also received a lovely basket pattern quilt designed by Mrs. Linda McDaniel and made and quilted by her officers, each of whose name appears embroidered on the handle of the patterned basket. These were Mrs. Alice Hare, Mrs. Ruth Sennec, Mrs. Evelyn Wardlow, Mrs. Estella Arnett, Mrs. Edna Cozad, Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, Mrs. Lula Nankervis, Mrs. Ruth Goble, Mrs. Kate Skinner, Mrs. Etta Henderson, Mrs. Linda McDaniel, Mrs. Bertha Schmidt, Miss Ella Murdy, Miss Corrie Vile, Mrs. Nellie Morgan, Mrs. Maud Michl.

Adjournment to the dining hall followed the installation services where refreshments of raspberry shortcake with whipped cream were served at tables cleverly arranged with miniature flower baskets at each place, designed with gum drops flowers as favors.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD CLUBS

Beach Club Features Add to Success of 50-50 Party

Duplicating the success and pleasure of the more formal winter functions of Southern California Fifty-Fifty club, last Saturday night's midsummer informal at Jonathan Beach club, Santa Monica, was enjoyed by a representative attendance of members.

A buffet supper was served at 10:30 o'clock, offering a pleasant interruption to the dancing which had begun at an earlier hour and which was resumed at the close of the supper interval. Missie Bittick's orchestra provided the dance music.

Santa Ana members in attendance included Dr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Givens, Mr. and Mrs. J. Riley Huber, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell, Miss Lolita Mead, Miss Laura Anderson, Messrs A. Fernandez, Hume West and Charles Potts.

Ebbel Day Nursery Is In Need Of Fruits And Jellies

Canned fruit, jams, jellies and preserves, in whose preparation for winter use, Santa Ana housewives are deeply engrossed just at present, are needed badly at Ebbel Day Nursery, according to Mrs. Richard Winkler, chairman of the Day Nursery board.

Today Mrs. Winkler and her sister board members, issued an appeal to the women of the city, to set aside some of the fruit they have been canning for their own pantry shelves, to be given to this deserving project of Ebbel society. It was pointed out that if every Ebbel member and friend gave a minimum of two jars of fruit and perhaps some additional jelly and jam, the Day Nursery fruit shelves would have sufficient to carry them through the needs of the winter season.

And fruits are a very necessary part of the diet of the little children cared for at the Nursery, which, while originated by Ebbel society, is yet truly a community project, in which various business houses of the city have offered invaluable aid. Paid attendance at the nursery, which fell off during the extended period when mothers of small children were without work so that practically all the cases were cared for free, has begun to increase again. Now between 15 and 20 children are being cared for daily, according to Mrs. Winkler, who points out that mothers are being given work more frequently.

The fruit contributions asked for and needed so badly, may be left directly at the nursery, 610 Garfield street, where Mrs. Ethel Flockton, mother, will receive them, or donors may communicate with any member of the Day Nursery board, Mrs. Winkler, 8701; Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, 1003; Mrs. J. E. Liebig, 3227; Mrs. W. D. Ranney, 2610W; Mrs. R. P. Yeagle, 2643; Mrs. Hugh Plumb, 2311J; Mrs. George D. Newcom, 8774W, or Mrs. C. V. Newman, 8122R.

Women Painters Plan Anniversary Of Olympiad

Commemorating the date a year ago when Los Angeles and the Southland joined in greeting the great crowds assembled for the Tenth Olympic Games, the Women Painters of the West, of which Evelyn Nunn Miller, formerly of Santa Ana but now of Los Angeles, is president, will stage their annual exhibit throughout the first two weeks of August at the State building in Exposition park, Los Angeles.

Of more than usual interest in connection with this exhibit, will be the commemorative gift to the city, of one of the paintings from the group shown, the selection depending upon the will of those visiting the two weeks' exhibit. In selecting this means of determining upon the canvas to go to the city as the property of the public, members of the association agreed unanimously to donate that picture which received the greatest number of votes during the two weeks commemorating the Olympic Games period. Every person visiting the exhibit during the opening two weeks will be privileged to cast a vote naming his or her favorite among all the pictures shown.

Sunday afternoon, July 30, there will be a public reception and program at the State building with several distinguished speakers and an honor guest list to include victors in last year's Olympics. On Thursday evening, August 10, there will be an informal reception from 8 to 10, at which guests will be privileged to meet the various artists of the hostess group. The State building is open daily from 10 a. m. until 5 p. m., so that all interested may see the exhibit between those hours, and cast their votes for the gift canvas.

Mrs. Miller, who has been spending the past few days in Santa Ana as the guest of her mother, Mrs. M. A. Nunn, 802 North Ross street, today called attention to the fact that the gesture on the part of the Women Painters of the West, is the only manner in which any person or organization of the Southland is celebrating the first anniversary of the Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

This is Mrs. Miller's second year in the presidency of the artist group.

Dahlia In Decorative Effect Are Admired By Dinner Guests

In working out decorative details for the buffet dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Robertson entertained members of a dinner bridge club last night in their home, 2235 Riverside drive, Mrs. Robertson employed dahlia in a bewildering variety of color and form.

For the small tables where the guests repaired in groups of four from the buffet, were baskets of dainty pompons in soft pastel colorings. Throughout the rooms were great clusters of display blooms, including one ranging from pale rose to petals so deep as to be almost maroon. Exciting special admiration was an arrangement of Jane Cowl dahlias, striking for size and beauty of coloring, and grown by Mr. Robertson's mother, Mrs. J. G. Robertson, at her North Main street home.

Covers were laid at the dinner hour for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Orlin Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nilsson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newcomb, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. MEETING HELD 200 FULLERTON AT RICHFIELD VETERANS HOLD FOR PROTESTS PARK MEETING

ATWOOD, July 27.—Meeting again at the Richfield school last night, the Valencia High School protest association discussed the forming of the proposed district and presented a group of reasons why it should not be done, making plans at the close of the session to meet again Saturday night at the Bradford avenue school auditorium in Placentia.

At this meeting an attempt will be made to find what the committee pushing the withdrawal from the Fullerton Union High School district has in mind as to financial such a move, provided voters ballot to withdraw and form the new district at the polls Monday, July 31.

The paper presented gave 11 points as to why the district should not be formed. It was signed by a fact finding committee, C. G. Teed, J. W. Beatty, George Kellogg and S. W. McCulloch, representing all four of the districts of the Placentia Union Grammar School district. The points as outlined were countered by S. H. Strathman, secretary of Placentia Chamber of Commerce, McCulloch, chairman of the committee, said the figures were a matter of record at the offices of the county assessor, auditor, the county superintendent of schools and the treasurer.

On the other hand, McCulloch contested the figures presented by the committee who had worked for withdrawal, and Strathman said they were accurate at the time they were gleaned and might vary now. Members of the protest association, however, said they were not interested in what had been, except as it bore on the future, but wanted to know what saving on their tax bill the new school will bring about, provided the taxpayers vote for it.

Strathman drew attention to the figures in the paper read by McCulloch as being inaccurate for future consideration since the new Riley tax bill will change the set-up. The purpose of postponing the next meeting until July 29 was to give time to get the new figures on assessed valuations of the districts concerned, McCulloch said.

Those present asked Strathman to present the same petition he presented at the meeting of the state board of education at the session Saturday night.

THE TINYMIES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

"Oh, oh! Here's where a mean trick's done," said Goldy. "But we'll have some fun. The fisherman who's up above is wishing for some fish."

"He'd haul them up and have a meal, not thinking just how they would feel. This time we're going to fool him, and he will not get his wish."

"I'll say he won't," cried Duncy. "Gee, it's time somebody's helping me. This rubber boot is heavy. I am no strong man, you know."

"Come Scouty, hold the hook real still. We do not want to spoil a thrill. We'll let the boot hooked on real tight and then, up it will go!"

"All right, I'll gladly lend a hand," said Scouty. "But, please understand that when it's hooked I'm going to swim up to the water top."

"It will be heaps of fun to see the fisherman, 'cause I'm sure he will be so disappointed that he'll let the old boot drop."

"Okay," said Duncy. "I'll swim, too. Here's where we both see something new." And then they hooked the boot on. It was promptly jerked away.

"The man has fallen for our trick," we Scouty cried. "Gee, this is sick. I'll bet that this will make him stop his fishing for today."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

For a girl to reveal her figure, may not always be good form.

They trailed the boot up to the air and Duncy shouted, "This is rare! 'Tis well the man is on a dock, instead of in a boat."

"Why, he'd have fallen in the sea and likely captured you and me. I want to see what he does, now. Come on, let's stay afloat."

The fisherman took quite a flop, before he let the big boot drop. And then he said, "My, what a catch! But this won't spoil my fun. 'I'll drop my fishing line back in, right near the spot where it has been. If I have any luck at all, I'll hook the other one."

LUNCHEON HELD TO CELEBRATE W. R. C. JUBILEE

LA HABRA, July 27.—One hundred fifteen guests were seated at the attractive luncheon tables arranged under the big trees at the Launer estate Wednesday afternoon when the La Habra W. R. C. celebrated the 50th anniversary of the founding of the national W. R. C. The affair was known as the Golden Jubilee luncheon, and tables were appointed in yellow, carried out with summer flowers. A covered wagon in a desert scene was the center of the officers' table. Dr. D. C. Munford of La Habra talked on "Real Patriotism," pointing out that real patriotism was as much in preventing war as in going to war. He showed that the amount of money spent on the Civil war was enough to have bought and freed every slave. That the amount of money spent by the United States in the World war was enough to buy the whole of Germany. He also recalled some interesting experiences he had while a surgeon in France during the World war. Other numbers on the program included a cornet trio by Russell Granger, Jimmie Launer and Otis Scott; a patriotic reading by Nellie Mae Johnson, and the history of the corps, given by Mrs. Minnie Williams.

Mrs. Lida Selden of the La Habra corps was introduced as the oldest member. She has been in W. R. C. membership for 35 years. Mrs. Keziah Grover was the only veteran's wife present. Comrade David Reed of Whittier, a Civil war veteran, was introduced, and recounted some of his interesting experiences during the Civil war. Antonio Gonzales of the La Habra Mexican camp sang two Mexican song numbers. Out-of-town guests included 15 members of the Whittier W. R. C. The luncheon closed the activities of the local corps in celebration of the Golden Jubilee, and on Sunday they were guests at the Nazarene church when Rev. A. M. Blackmon gave a special address commemorating the anniversary. At this time Mrs. M. C. Ficus, on behalf of the local corps, presented the church with a flag.

The present hot weather is extremely hard on the bean crop, which is just at the stage where cooler weather is needed. Bean crops are looking fine, however, and a good crop is expected.

WORKERS ADOPT NEW HOURS ON R. F. C. PROJECT

SAN CLEMENTE, July 27.—Forty-eight men are employed at present on reconstruction and improvement work about San Clemente. Eighteen are engaged removing the dirt from the Santa Fe tracks below the Murphree property, scene of the recent landslide, 20 are at the State park and 10 are clearing the bridge trails about the village, restoring them for use. All work is under direction of Dan Mulherson, and the workmen on the Santa Fe job are his employees. The others are R. F. C. men from neighboring towns and vicinity.

Beginning this week, in compliance with President Roosevelt's message, Mr. Mulherson changed the men's working hours at the railroad job to six hour shifts with work going on twelve hours a day. A steam shovel and several trucks are in use. No dynamite is to be used as was first thought necessary. The dirt is being filled in for a road between the beach and the track. This strip constitutes the 6000 feet of beach front belonging to the state park and extends from the south park boundary north as far as the Murphree place.

Contractor Mulherson believes that by August 10 the tracks will be cleared and the temporary track removed.

At the park, two rustic bridges have been constructed on the trail to the ocean. With the trail completed easy access to the ocean from the park will be possible. Palm trees from the sunken ground of the landslide have been removed to the park center.

Harry A. Hopkins, chairman of board of highway commissioners has expressed great satisfaction over progress of work at the park and assures Mulherson of all immediate help the state can afford. It is expected that paving of the park drives may be done in the near future.

The public is taking advantage of park facilities, both for picnicking and camping. Plans are under way with the San Diego Lighting company for the installation of a lighting system. This will probably include a string of lights from the highway and a circle of lights around the bowl.

TOT RESCUED BY SEAL BEACH BOY

SEAL BEACH, July 27.—Clyde Whittington, nine year old Seal Beach boy, yesterday saved a baby from a possible drowning in the surf here. Clyde was walking along the sand when he noticed a baby playing in the sand in back of the bulkhead along the beach. The little tot in its play discovered a break in the bulkhead and climbed through to explore the region on the other side. The youngster walked out into the water, waded out beyond his depth and a breaker washed him under. Clyde rushed out and dragged the child to safety. The mother, who had been lying on the sand reading was attracted by the baby's screams and rushed to the water to find her child already up on the beach, thoroughly drenched and crying but otherwise none the worse for the experience.

OIL LEASES ON 700 ACRES IN TALBERT TAKEN

TALBERT, July 27.—Approximately 700 acres of land, adjoining the Santa Ana river to the west is reported to have been leased by an oil company. Included in the leases are the 100-acre ranch of John Martin and 40 acres of the Dinmore place.

The representatives of the oil company interested in the leasing attended the board meeting of the Newbert River Protection district, advancing a proposition that two miles of the river adjoining the land already leased from private parties, be leased to them to save other companies drilling near them. As no rental or bonus was offered in the lease, the directors did not accept the proposition. C. A. Westgate, Santa Ana oil operator, was the representative of the company who made the offer. Directors who considered the proposition were John Pope and Louis Bushard, Talbert; William Leinhardt, Earl Patterson, and Al Selvedge.

The proposed drilling includes the putting up this week of a derrick at Five Point.

YOUTH LEAPS FROM AUTO INTO FENCE

BREA, July 27.—Freeland Smith, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, 123 Pacific Electric street, is reported as not recovering satisfactorily from injuries sustained Tuesday afternoon when he jumped from a moving car and landed in a barbed wire fence. Young Smith was in his father's car and was making repairs on it when the breaks loosened and the car began rolling toward the embankment over the Pacific Electric railway. Unable to stop the car, the boy jumped, and received severe cuts about the legs and arms. Infection setting in the wounds retarded the rapid recovery at first expected. The car landed on the railway without turning over and was damaged but little.

PORTUS NAMED SECRETARY OF LAGUNA GROUP

LAGUNA BEACH, July 27.—Capt. George A. Portus of Coast Royal, a director, was elected secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting of the board of directors held Tuesday night, following a report by Frank D. Hevener, chairman of a special committee named to consider the proposal of Capt. Portus that he be given the office at a salary of $100 per month, provided that sufficient funds could be raised to warrant the employment.

In his motion for the employment of Portus, Hevener stated that memberships should be sold at $12 per annum or $1 per month for active members and $5 per year for associate members and that the secretary should be paid a salary after the income from memberships had reached $150 per month. Captain Portus agreed to employ his own secretary, after the name of Mrs. Madeline Holliday had been suggested for that position.

The special meeting was called by Dr. D. R. Hoffman, president, following the sudden resignation of the secretary, I. H. Shankle, who has served for several months without pay.

A. J. Stead was named a chairman of a committee to arrange for the entrance in the Fiesta del Oro parade at Santa Ana of the horse and buggy driven through the streets of Laguna Beach for more than 20 years by the late William Scamman.

Sherman A. Paddock, managing editor of the South Coast News, was elected a director in place of John H. Hinchman, Laguna Beach painter, who resigned. John Jehle, publicity chairman, reported that all of the booth space for the Festival of Arts street market in El Paseo, has been sold. A motion by Jehle to have chamber protest to the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce against the use of the Festival of Arts, to be used for an event next year, failed to get a favorable vote. A. J. Stead was named chairman of a committee on decorations for the Festival.

A. W. Copley, representing the Community Club, asked the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce in putting on a "movie night" in connection with the presentation of "Cherie of the Legion," an opera written in Laguna Beach, at the school auditorium Aug. 12 and 13. He said that Charles F. Reiser, director, who lives in Laguna Beach, had promised to help, as have Hallam Cooley and Arthur Caesar. It is possible that Ed Wynn will be one of the stars. Reiser will act as master of ceremonies in introducing the celebrities.

A. J. Stead reported that Mayor Frank B. Champion will arrange an informal meeting between the directors and the city council to discuss the placing of a breakwater project on the city's program for a loan under the national public works act.

A vote of appreciation was given to I. H. Shankle, the retiring secretary.

COUPLE ARRAIGNED ON MONEY CHARGES

LA HABRA, July 27.—Carl Mick and his wife, Pansy Mick of Colina road, East Whittier were arraigned before Judge A. C. Earley Tuesday morning on a short change charge. The couple entered the hardware store of A. C. Goodell early in the month and through their clever manipulations left the city $5 to the good. Goodell made a complaint to police. The following two days this couple appeared in Fullerton and Anaheim and made similar deals. They were arrested in Fullerton and Mick has just finished serving a 30-day jail sentence in that city. He was released after immediately on his release. He was fined $25 but after returning the money to Mr. Goodell, the judge suspended $20 of the fine provided that Mick and his family leave the state at once.

Cleaners, Dyers To Ratify Code

L. E. Coffman, of the Washington Cleaners and dyers, will represent Santa Ana in Los Angeles July 29, 30 and 31 at the conference of cleaners and dyers of Southern California called to formulate and ratify a new code of ethics under the national industrial recovery act. Every cleaning plant in Southern California will be represented at this conference, which will be held in the Alexandria hotel, according to Fred T. Moody, executive secretary of the association, so that their united approval will be behind the code when it is submitted to the national capital. After the code has been completed for submission, delegates to the conference will be guests of the entertainment committee. The program as arranged will include a dinner-dance on the opening day of the conference, a matinee on Sunday and on Monday a trip to one of the large motion picture studios.

The Baptist church and Sunday school are planning to picnic at Anaheim park next Tuesday, August 2. The Four-square Gospel church people will spend Saturday at Green River camp and the Church of Christ will hold a picnic tonight at Anaheim park.

A "GREAT WAR"

The President's proposition has met with very considerable popular acclaim. He received thousands of telegraphic assurances, from both small and large employers of labor, that they proposed to co-operate with his program 100 per cent.

The truth is, on every hand, even locally, as far as we can observe, business houses are planning to take such action as to entitle them to the emblem of full co-operation, which is being issued from the Federal government through its representatives, the post offices, in the various communities.

Of course there can be questions raised upon various phases of the program, and it would be very strange indeed if there were not some places where adjustments would have to be made, and possibly changes arranged in the rules and regulations already laid down. Undoubtedly the President recognizes this, just as much as some editors who insist on it being true.

But we believe that appealing to the same spirit, and carrying on the technique which was used in the Great War, is simply a recognition, that this fight is a greater war even than that. The response shows that there is a feeling on the part of most folks in our country, that whatever is agreed upon as the pathway to lead us out, that all should walk in that path, and if the way is difficult, to make the best of it. And, if it is impossible to do so in any particular line, explain the reason and have changes made.

It was rather strange to us that to a metropolitan daily, quoting editorial comment from various papers, employing at least a quarter of a page of the paper, only Chicago and New York papers seem to be worth quoting in their comment.

These papers are extremely conservative, hesitating in commendation and one or more of them critical in the very name of "patriotism." A few words from the Brooklyn Eagle, the New York World-Telegram and the Chicago Daily Times are quite timely.

The Brooklyn Eagle says, in part:

The American mind is susceptible to the sort of mass attack that is now being made. Experts in publicizing policies and stimulating mass emotion have been summoned. Soon radio, movies, newspapers and other approaches to the public mind will be conducting appeals to all industries to sign up for better times.

This is a short cut with a vengeance. It illustrates once more how fast the President and his advisers move into the new fields when circumstances indicate that another departure might give the present recuperative program its fairest chance of success.

The New York World-Telegram says, in part: Despite the fact that a large majority will co-operate with the President, a minority probably will not. To assure that this minority will be as small as possible, the administration is embarking on a gigantic publicity campaign.

The publicity campaign should be an appeal to reason—education instead of ballyhoo. The minority which does not want to co-operate probably can be persuaded if approached on the basis of intelligent self-interest. None wishes to be clubbed into accepting anything.

And the Chicago Daily Times quite cryptically says:

President Roosevelt's appeal for a voluntary raising of wages and shortening of hours by employers must have the hearty moral and pocketbook support of every American who buys anything. Every true American will support the President.

On the other hand, the New York Herald-Tribune, the New York Sun and the Chicago Tribune are rather critical. In fact, we should say almost as critical as they dare be, in the present economic condition, and the state of public sentiment. For example, the New York Herald-Tribune, after condemning the regimentation and declaring that a host of employers cannot do this and escape bankruptcy, goes on to say:

But more dangerous still is the creation of a popular sentiment which may not discriminate between the employer who is unable to conform and one who refuses. The President and his administrators will have to be exceedingly careful in the distribution of their badges of honor to prevent boycotts which will destroy business and promote an ill feeling among neighbors, not to say among classes, to plague the country for years to come.

As we have said, we believe in those cases where it is impossible, there will be an adjustment, because there is everything to indicate that the administration is determined to be reasonable in carrying out this program.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE CLOSES

The Economic conference of the nations adjourns today. In the closing hours the delegates listened to various addresses summing up and declaring the convictions, sometimes of the speaker, and sometimes of the head of the nation which he represented.

These addresses were addresses, for the most part, of felicitation, and, in the common parlance, a great deal of it would be considered "bunk." We cannot quite understand how anyone could declare that the conference, as such, has been anything but a failure.

To be sure, the mere coming together in recognition of the common interest of the nations in a common program, may in itself have constituted something of value as a contribution to the future. But we could say that much of only the necessity of their coming together. To have come together and not recognize the driving need behind them to reach conclusions, in respect to tariff walls and industrial programming, either shows a failure to comprehend the full significance of the necessity or such a limitation upon the ability of the conferees or those behind them, as to indicate something like intellectual bankruptcy in the nations.

It will be impossible to prevent greater emphasis now being placed upon nationalistic programs than there has been even heretofore. It has been great enough in the past. It will be even greater now, with the United States putting tremendous emphasis upon that phase of procedure.

It may be possible that the nations of Europe will be forced together, and it may be that a few nations may come together on other bases, but certain it is that we were not prepared for any real world-wide industrial and economic program being worked out. A few of the nations, five of them, have bound themselves to take $35,000,000 worth of silver off the market each year. This possibly might have been done without a world conference.

Whatever values the most optimistic can claim to see coming from this conference are so pitifully small in the light of its importance, and what might have been, as to cause a feeling of deep hopelessness.

We must reap what we have sown. We have been emphasizing nationalism and race differences, instead of working toward their elimination, and putting an emphasis upon the "oneness" of people. Religious, intellectual and liberal groups can now pass their resolutions, altruistic and idealistic, but it does not change the prejudices and customs that have been produced by the failure of these groups to have maintained these ideas most steadfastly in the hearts of men during the past 150 years, particularly.

We need now all the patience, the education and the finest type of religious teaching that we possibly can get. And if we are forced, as we undoubtedly are, to "go it alone" as a nation, we must do so only with the thought that necessity compels it, and that finally there must be found a better and more complete way.

Boston dispatch reveals $12,000 fund endowed to provide flannel underwear for Andover theological students have been untouched for years. Probably young preachers figure they will have enough scratching to do in life, as it is.

WHERE TO BEGIN

There is a story of a man who started to go by automobile from Washington to the Pacific Coast. He found himself lost among the mountains of Kentucky. Accosting a mountaineer on the road, he inquired if he were on the right road for Chicago. "Wall," answered the mountaineer, "stranger, if I was going to Chicago, I wouldn't start from here."

This story might well be used to meet the criticisms being made against the administration policies looking toward industrial recovery. The fact is, industrially we have been pretty much lost in the mountains. Whatever has led us off the road, we have to start from where we are to get to our destination. This involves some experimentation and possibly some failures. But it is idle to sit down and wait. We must move.

It is because the administration at Washington is starting from where we are, moving somewhere, that the people of the country are so solidly behind it. Unless some one has a better plan, or knows a better road to industrial rehabilitation, it behooves us to stand behind the powers that be.

Your Daily Mail

Christian Science Monitor

Every vacationist who has mail forwarded from his home post office to his summer address becomes doubly a debtor to the marvelous accuracy and faithfulness of letter carriers who are quietly and constantly "on the job." The carrier who serves your home route will re-address your mail and another man miles distant will deliver it promptly.

This is a service too often taken for granted. If anyone will take the time to read one or two issues of the Postal Record, which is the official publication of the National Association of Letter carriers, he will gain a new vision of the consecration to duty and the sacrifice of personal comfort which is sometimes represented in the regularity with which the daily mail reaches to the humblest mountain home, or the most isolated island settlement.

The members of the National Association of Letter Carriers have had many problems during the past years; problems of salary cuts, problems which are always with them of unyielding snowdrifts in winter, flooded roads in spring, excessive heat in summer.

Through all the vicissitudes of their business these public servants have gone steadily on their way, delivering the mail over their devious routes, speaking words of cheer to those along the way who have come to look upon them as friends and sometimes counselors. They have acquired a sound philosophy which is well expressed in the following words of one of their number: "A horse can pull; he can also kick. But while he is pulling he can't kick, likewise while he is kicking he can't pull." And so they go on pulling and eliminating the kicking.

Get acquainted with some rural letter carrier this summer, learn a little about his work and his thoughts. Perhaps he will allow you to ride around his route with him some day; it will be an interesting experience. Perhaps you will find that he is happy to take a few magazines with him to leave in roadside boxes which seldom contain magazines. Many letter carriers carry much more than mail; they carry cheer, news of the outside world, and often worthwhile reading matter which is a gift from unknown friends to homes which otherwise would know little of literary richness.

One Analysis

Oakland Tribune

What interests economists now is that the recovery which we are witnessing in this country is not an isolated case. World conditions are growing better.

Charles Merz, expert for the New York Times, who has charted business for years, says this week that: "This recovery is not limited to the industrial nations, to the nations with depreciated currencies or to those which have avoided such depreciation. It is broad enough to suggest that the need of replenishing low stocks of goods, the rebound of prices from the panic level and the improvement of confidence are operating simultaneously in many parts of the world."

In an article for his paper Merz notes the recent gains in this country, examines the evidence of improvement elsewhere, and considers the timing between recovery at home and abroad in the experience of earlier depressions. He is convinced that recovery is here. The Times index has shown business activity climbing for four months, broadening in scope and gathering impetus. The rally is three times longer than any earlier rally made during the depression, and the net gain scored in points is ten times as large.

The Roll of Honor

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A BRIEF AUTOBIOGRAPHY

I have no regretful emotions at all
When I sometimes look back on the days past recall
If memory serves me, the life of a boy—
Is not one of carefree and unending joy.

As a child, though I longed to do glorious deeds,
My chief occupation was pulling up weeds.
I do not recall
That my urges and needs
Were furthered at all
By pulling up weeds.

The numerous stages of toil I went through;
I often arose at the crack of the dawn
And labored till breakfast time mowing the lawn,
And then on a box in the cellar I stood
And spent a long hour in piling up wood.

I don't think I did
Any more than I should,
But no right-minded kid
Likes piling up wood.

On cold winter days I arose from my bed
Before fully awake and repaired to the shed.
Where I picked up a pitchfork and threw down the hay
So the cow might have food for the rest of the day.

The creature seemed grateful, that much I'll allow,
But who gives a rap for the thanks of a cow.
I'd hate to return
To the old stable now,
For who gives a darn
For the thanks of a cow.

Forest Ranger Bert Stephenson had secured an air patrol for Trabuco National forest. The airplane was to leave March Field on its surveys, swing over to the Santa Ana mountains and follow the main divide to the southern end. This was believed to promise invaluable aid in discovery and control of possible forest fires in the district.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

STALIN AND ROOSEVELT

Some months ago I wrote in these articles of the contrasting policies of Stalin and Trotsky.

I pointed out, as one of the major differences, that Trotsky believed that Communism could not succeed in Russia until the world revolution had been achieved, that a Communist Russia could not survive in a Capitalistic world, while Stalin, on the other hand, had decided that it was the part of wisdom for Russia to stick to the job of Communizing herself before she spent energy on any world revolution.

This problem of the relative importance of domestic and foreign policy is present everywhere.

Roosevelt faced it at the outset of his regime.

He came to power at the end of fourteen years of rather sterile foreign policy.

Our political foreign policy and our economic foreign policy had alike failed to contribute either to world peace or to a better foreign trade for ourselves.

Roosevelt was in the line of succession from Wilson who put strong emphasis upon the importance of revising our foreign policy in terms of the new interdependence of the modern world.

Hope ran high in many circles that we would see a new deal in foreign policy as well as in domestic policy.

In his inaugural, Roosevelt hinted that domestic recovery would be first on the docket, but that a new realism in foreign policy would not be out of mind.

Since then the London Economic Conference swung into action with promise, early in the preparatory stage, of progress towards some truly world action.

The wind quickly veered towards an intensification of nationalism instead of its revision and modernization.

So that today America stands committed, for the time being, to letting the improvement of international conditions wait until America is made prosperous again.

This Stalin technique may well be good strategy for the moment; as a long-time policy it is, in my judgment, suicidal and will prevent even domestic recovery save in a tentative and insecure fashion.

SUMMER OUTINGS

There is a pool on our farm. It used to be the base of the silo in the days when the farm sheltered many cows and horses and all the other creatures that make farms real. We haven't any cows yet and the silo was wrecked when we came so, with the water right there, we made it into a pool.

It is a nice pool, we think. There are evergreens about it and a boy Pan sits smiling at his face in the water below him. Peter thought it was a nice place too. You see the city was very warm. The brick walls soaked in the heat and held it until they were like Dutch ovens fifteen, fifty, a hundred feet high. The streets caught and held their share of the sun's fiery glare and there was no place for the bare feet of weary little children in all the length and breadth of the block. Somehow Peter got himself bundled into our car and deposited on the old farm. We missed him by and by and I went out to look for him. He was wading in the pool without a rag of clothes to trouble his wee body.

"This is what the pool is for, isn't it?" said he with childish anxiety to be quite right.

"Exactly what it is for," said I. "Have you a boat along? If you haven't I think you'll find some little bits of ones, just the size for the pool, on the bench in the barn. Another little boy had them."

Seeing Peter flashing about the garden like a little pink cupid, somewhat reduced in girth by I imagine, the restricted life in the walled and paved city, made me think of all the other little chaps, thin and weakened and worn by the heat of the town. Now if they could get out and use pools and brooks and lakes for what they were meant for, wouldn't it be just fine?

Somehow it doesn't seem just right for big grown folk to take themselves off to pleasant places in the hills and valleys by the sides of living waters and leave little children to wither in the heat of the city. Before leaving one ought to lift just one child out of his predicament and into the blessed open country. Most of us could manage to help just one.

Aunt Eliza is an old lady. Just how old I would not dare to guess. She is as slim as a birch tree and her skin is the same golden brown. Her hair is iron gray and she wears spectacles before her bright gray eyes. Summer and winter, except when she goes to church, she wears blue checked gingham. The only difference in the costume is the sunbonnet that she wears in summer and the knitted blue scarf that covers her head in winter. Otherwise she looks just the same.

She lives in a little house all alone for the most part. Her family have all passed on, sleeping by the row of headstones each marked with a red geranium planted on Decoration Day each year by Aunt Eliza. There is a collie, a cat, a flock of hens, two cows, a brook and a pasture and old trees. Between the front of the cottage and the road there is a garden behind a picket fence. Hollyhocks and flag iris and old roses grow there and there are two peonies, one each side of the door. They always bloom for Decoration Day.

Each year a little girl is brought from the great city, three hundred miles away, to stay with Aunt Eliza. "It is my way of keeping youth in the house," says she looking beyond the row of stones in the churchyard. "Youth gives us more than it gets from us. It is good of the child to stay with me."

Couldn't you manage, just one?
